Tutoring Experience

For the past decade, I've worked with students from various educational backgrounds, helping them excel in IB and A-Level Psychology. My practical experience in clinical settings has enabled me to provide students with real-world examples that deepen their understanding of key psychological concepts. I've supported students with their Internal Assessments and Extended Essays, ensuring they meet the IB criteria and achieve top marks.

In addition to IB, I've taught A-Level and IGCSE Psychology, offering students tailored guidance and helping them prepare for their exams. My experience working with special needs children has also equipped me with the skills to support students with diverse learning needs, ensuring they receive the help they need to succeed.

I've enjoyed working with students globally, from Europe to Asia, delivering one-on-one sessions that focus on building confidence and mastering subject material. My approachable teaching style ensures that each student feels comfortable asking questions and fully engaging with the course content.
